The latter was read by the Clerk, and entered upon the minutes.

FRIVATE TRAMICOAD BILL.

Mr. FAUCETT, as chairman, brought up the report from the soloct committee on the Mount Fleusant Traumwy Bill, with the minutes of evidence taken before the committee. The report was ordered to be printed.

Mr. W. FORSTER asked the Scoreday for Landa, "When it is probable that the returns relative to leases of mineral lands, ordered by this Heuse on the 2nd of September, will be laid upon the table?

On the order of the day for the second reading of the Claims against Government Enforcement Bill being read, Mr. W. which the Crown was vested to the injury and destruction of individual interests. He was glad to think that cases of this kind were not likely to occur, but we ought to legislate for cases which were within the scope of our institutions. Hon. members would gree with him that no reason had been shown, or could be shown, in the present state of things why the Crown should be armed with such great powers, or why there should not be a further improvement in the law so far as to introduce in the relation between the Crown and the subject the simple principles of justice which were allowed to operate between subject and subject. That was what be asked the House to do in this bill—to place the subject on an equal footing with the Crown where justice was required to be done. He asked the House to transfer to our courts of justice, in which all sides of the House had confidence, the full power of determining in cases between individuals and the Crown. He had no reason to suppose that oilher the Government or other honorable members would oppose this bill; and he toek that occasion to offer his thanks to the hen, and learned gendemen who had assisted him in drawing up the bill. It seemed to him that the question might be debated without reference to party considerations, as it was one which went to the very root of those principles of justice which we all acknowledged. With these romarks he would leave the matter in the hands of the House.

Mr. WALKER seconded the motion.

Mr. COWPER was sorry to say that it would be his duty to oppose the bill before the House. The honorable member had not brought forward any very strong reasons for dealing with this matter. It was only a few weeks since a measure that was recently passed with reference to this duty to oppose the bill before the House.

Mr. WALKER seconded the motion.

Mr. COWPER was sorry to say that it would be his duty to oppose the bill before the House. The honorable member had not brought forward any very strong reasons for dealing with this matter. It was not tha he could perpetrate no injustice, and, consequently, there could be no demand for redress. The claim, in fact, was wholly indefensible, and on this account he should feel it his duty to vote for the bill as a just and necessary measure.

Mr. HOLT said he should support the bill, regarding it as a very just and desirable measure. It merely proposed to afford that right of redress that should be afforded to every individual. He knew himself cases in which land had been sold twice over by the Government. For instance, he (Mr. Holt) had bought some land, and pald for it, but one day, on going out, he found a lot of feacing about to be streeted. Requiring of his overseer, he was informed that Sir Daniel Cooper was going to feace is one-half of the property, which he laid claim to. (A laugh.) Well, he (Mr. Holt) did not bring an action against Sir Daniel; but he at once put on a largo number of men and had the whole purchase feaced in before Sir Daniel how work he (Mr. Holt) to proceed it he foreward the day of the conjuctace in which Sir Daniel Cooper succeeded in custing him from the land, how was he (Mr. Holt) to proceed it he Government refused him the right of using. This was not the only case in which Sir Daniel Cooper held claims. There were some 602 carces near Sydney, some of it worth £50 or £60, which that gentleman held from the public under some old claim. (Hear, hear, from Mr. Lucas.) This bill only proceed to confer a just right. Even in despotic countries the privilege of seeking redress was allowed, and they all know the celebrated case in which the miller of Berlin brought an action against the King of Prussis for building some structures that took the wind from his mill cails. In that case damages were obtained, and the mill had become historical and famous ever since. Surely when such a right was not denied in despotic countries, it would not be refused in a country possessed of free institutions and manhoed califrage.

Mr. LKARY would support the bill, not that he thought the Government would ever her. Mr. HART was happy to hear that he had misunder-stood the hen. member. He should support the second reading.

Mr. GARRETT thought there were objections to the bill, and feared that he could not support it. There were mem-might be made a good, useful, and not an oppressive measure.

Mr. HARPUR asked leave to withdraw his amendment, but Mr. HOSKINS objecting, it was refused.

Mr. DRIVRR maintained that the whole of the objections of the hon. member, Mr. Hoskins, were without foundation. The fixing of stakes as reforred to was intended to prevent persons from pursuing the frequent practice of stalling bays and other places. With reference to the statement of the hon. member, Mr. Dickeen, that there was plenty of fish on our coast to supply the colony for five hundred years hence, he (Mr. Driver) might state that the bappened to know about thirty persons regularly engaged in fishing for the last twenty years, some of whom stated that during the last nine months they had been engaged for three or four weeks at a time without catching even the tail of a fish. [Mr. ROBERTSON: With a hook?] With a hook. It might be recollected that a fishing party, including several members of the House, and piloted by one of the most experienced fishermen in the colony, were out for nearly a whole night, and netted but three fish.

Mr. FORSTER said he had no objection to the proposal to send the bill to a select committee, but as an hon. member had resisted that proposal he would offer a few observations on the measure. Though he did not altogother approve of the bill he did not like the extreme course proposed, that the bill should be read a second time that day six months. He did not intend to vote for that amendment, but he would prefer negativing the motion for the second reading as the milder form of treating it. [Mr. WISDOM: To move that the bill should be read a second time that day six months it be milded way of dealing with it.] He did not concur in that opinion; as if it were determined that the bill should be read as second time that day six months it could not be brought in again the sease, it was were not now upon a fishing expedition, considering the state of the House, to which he now begged to call attention. (Laughter.)

Hockins, and the mover."

Mr. DALGLESISH said it was a notorious fact t.
game laws of Rugland had done more than anything to on the country. This bill proposed to prevent fishing P.
particular way—fishing by stake note—a way in whice glabing had never been carried on in any part of the colony, except by aboriginals. The hon, member must have copied this measure from some of the Acts in Rugland, where it was necessary to protect the spawn of the salmon.
These stake note extended for milles along the ceast, and as important were the fisheries, that their revenues amounted to millions. But the same state of things did not exist here, for the habits of the fish were very different from those of Great Britain. The character and habits of the fish on these coasts did not require these, protections, and there could, consequently, be no use for this bill. Besides, independent of the unadvisability of multiplying the police, of whom the hon, member for Macquarie West had often said there were already too many, the expenses of carrying out this bill would be enermous, in consequence of the numerous inspectors who would have to be appointed. The hon, member had given no proof in support of his statement that fish were getting scarce, the mere fact of their not being so easily caught being no argument, since fish, like sli other animals soon discovered and avoided the means that were employed for their destruction. In fact, nature provided so bountfully for the peopling of the waters that fish would over long cause a scarcity. There was an odifination to their mumbers, but they were again caught as plentifully so ever, If it were no destruction that could cocur amongst the fish would over long cause a scarcity. There was no diminution to their numbers, but they were again caught as plentifully so ever. If it were no destruction to the sumbers and amuse themselves as they chose in sports they best liked, it was little short of fish in

Mr. TERRY moved, as an amendment, that the Order of the Day be postponed for that day six months. Mr. CARRETT, Mr. DalnGAR, and Mr. Dalle Chilsh supported the smeadment.

Mr. PIDDINGTON and Mr. HARPUR supported the motion of Mr. Forster, considering the postponement of the further consideration of the bill for a fortnight only matter of courtesy to the hon. member for Farramatta (Mr. Holroyd), who did not happen to be present.

Mr. ALROLD took the same view.

The mendment was negatived by a majority of 27 to 2—the minority consisting of Mr. Dangar and Mr. Terry.

The motion for the postponement of the bill for a forting the was then agreed to without division.

The House went into committee for the further consideration of the Blatany Hallway Company's Bill.

Clause 12. "Hallway may be made as soon as £3600 capital subscribed, and £1000 paid up."

Mr. DALGLEISH said that no ongineer had been examined before the committee in reference to the safety of practicality of this line.

Mr. GARRETT read the following from the evidence taken before the select committee. "14. By the Chairman: Do you know whether the Government Engineer-in-Chief or Railways has been consulted with regard testing the and shall asnox to his valuation a declaration in writing, subscribed by himself, of the correctness thereof," &c.

Mr. R. FORSTER said there was nothing in the clause providing that the justices of the Peace there mentioned abould not be abarcholders.

Mr. HOSKINS moved an amendment, which was carried, inserting words giving powers to the legal representatives of absent persons.

Mr. W. FORSTER objected to the principles of the clause, but, after a brief discussion, it was passed as amended.

Clauses 28, "Payment of compensation, application of purchase money, payment into court, payment out of court;" 29, "To whom purchase money under £200 be paid, the like over £20 under a contract with company, payment in accordance with Act to discharge company;" and 30, "Form of conveyance, lands to vest in company when taken, costs to be paid by company, costs may be taxed;" were passed without amondment.

Clause 31, "Company to fence off their land," was slightly amended by the omission of the words "if required to do so by the owner or occupier thereof."

Clause 32, "Company to make and maintain convenient excents, &c., and 33, power to enter adjoining lands to avoid or repair secident, were passed without amendment."

Clause 34, "Bridges have to be construoted over any read, the like over railway," led to some discussion, Mr. DALGLEISH contending that the gradient of reads made to pass under bridges was too steep at one in sixteen. (Altention was called to the state of the House, but a quorum was made.)

The clause, having been formally amended, was passed. Clause 35. "Width of bridge need not exceed that of reads; existing inclinations of reads need not be improved." Clause 37. "Branch railways" having been moved, and the clause was in instance, in 60, or that the words "where the same may be dangerous to the public safety." He thought the stor insertion of the words "acceeding 1 in 50," after the words "inclined plane."

The amendment was agreed to, and the clause there was no limitation to the right and repulsions leave the proviso, substituting the word "Government", for the word "Legislature."

Mr. GARRETT pointed out that there was no fear of the directors putting on too high a charge, as it would be against the interest of the company was to induce the settlement of a population at Botany, by giving facility for carriage and traffic. This they would never effect by putting on a high cale of charges, and thus keeping away the traffic they sought to encourage.

Mr. FIEWART did not consider there was much fear of an evercharge, as the line was very short, and, it traffic were made, there would soon be busses on the road if the railway tolks were too high.

Mr. HARFUR could not see upon what principle they could fix the tolks of this line, as it was altogether an experiment. It was much better to leave this in the hands of the directors, who would be better judges of what would pay them best then hen, members could be.

Mr. DANGAR, regarding this as a trial, was inclined to give every encouragement to a private enterprise of the kind, by acting as liberally towards them as he could.

Mr. R. FORSTER considered this change of great importance, and should not be decided hastily. He moved the Chairmen leave the chair, report progrees, and ask leave to sit again this day week.

Mr. DALGLEISH addressed the committee at length, and quoted from McCulloch in support of his argument against the principle proposed in this clause of allowing the company to fix tolks.

Attention was called to the state of the House several times, but on the boil being rung a quorum was present.

Mr. DALGLEISH continued his quotation.

Mr. R. FORSTER rose to order, and asked if the question were not one of reporting progress.

Dr. LANG objected to this system of continually calling attention to the state of the House, and ask if was contrary to the practice of the House, and said it was contrary to the practice of the House, and said it was contrary to the practice of the House, and said it was contrary to the practice of the House, and ask if it were

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, TO OCTOBER 17.
THE past week has not presented any features of more than ordinary interest. On Tuesday the vacancy, occasioned by the elevation of Mr. Murray was filled by the election of Mr. Hay to the office of Speaker, that gentleman's nomination to the chair being moved by Mr. Piddington, seconded by Dr. Lang, and unanimously assented to by the House. On the same day Mr. Murray took his seat as President of the Legislative Council, receiving the congratuations of the House on his appointment. Mr. Wentworth, the ex-President, proceeds to England by the mail-steamer on the 22nd instant, Want of rain is complained of very much all through the country. In many parts the water-holes have dried up, and the cattle are suffering through the searcity of water. Around the metropolitan district, also, the gardeners and small farmers are complaining, and the probability is that, uffiles rain soon sets in, vegotables of all kinds will become scarce and dear.

The Assembly have been engaged almost exclusively on the Estimates this week, and, siter a great amount of discussion, the Government have managed to carry through those for the sublic works and the police. Sundry reductions were proposed in the latter, but in every instance the attempt to cut down was defeated. The pension list evoked as usual, a prolonged discussion, an item of £300 for Dr. Bland being warmly contested. It was carried, however, by a division of £30 to 14.

A local Court has been duly inaugurated at the Lachken gold field, The polling for the election of Donelly as chairman.

A circular despatch has been received by the Governor from the Secretary of State, conveying an intimation of the expressed intention of President Lincoln's Government to issue letters-of-marque for the catensible purpose of protecting the commerce of the Northern States against Confederate cruisers. This proceeding, it is feared, by the Duke of Newcastle, may seriously affect British commerce.

On Thursday, shortly after noon, the prisoners in the gaol at Darlinghurst refused to resume their work, assigning as a reason for their "strike," that the bread served out to them was sour, and unfit for food Finding that the men were determined in the matter, Mr. Read at once sent down to Captain Scott, at the Central Police Office, and that gentleman, accompanied by Mr. Birrell, J.P., proceeded to the gaol to make inquiry. Samples of the bread were obtained, and, on a promise given that a survey should be held of the provisions, the prisoners resumed work.

SUPREME COURT-PRIDAY.

SUPREME COURT—FRIDAY.
SITTINGS IN BANCO.
BEFORE the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Wiso.
This was a special case from the Chairman of Quarter Sessions of the Northern Districts. The prisoner had been rired and convicted of uttering "an undertaking, chequo, or order for the payment of monop," The question was whether this was not so ambiguous as to be bad? Whether, in fact, the terms used were not such as to charge the prisoner with separate offences—an "undertaking" and an "order," &co., for the payment of money being different.
Mr. Isaacs appeared for the prisoner. The Grown was unrepresented.

Mr. Issaes appeared for the prisoner. The Crown was unrepresented.

Their Honors sustained the objection, and directed an entry to the effect that the prisoner ought not to baye been convicted, and must be discharged.

THE LAW INSTITUTE V. JOHN SMITH.

This was a rule nist calling upon one/John Smith to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him for contempt of Court in having drawn a lease "for fee and reward." he being neither an attorney of the Court nor a certificated conveyancer.

After some discussion as to whether substituted services should be directed.

The rule was enlarged intil the last day of the present term, to afford further time for endeavours to serve Smith personally.

IN HE HARCLAY V. MANRY AND ANOTHER, AND AN ALLEGED ACTION PENNINGTON V. MANHY.

personally.

IN HE BARCLAY V. MANBY AND ANOTHER, AND AN ALLEGED ACTION PERNINGTON V. MANBY.

This was a case from Chambers. It was a motion to set saids a District Court judgment entered up by Mr. W. G. Pennington sgaint Manby, and execution issued thereon. This judgment was based upon a warrant of attorney from Manby to Pennington, authorising the entry of judgment, &c., in an action of dobt for money had and received for £112, and costs of suit. The judgment had been entered up for £160 and costs; and for work and labeur. This variance and the entry of judgment upon the warrant of attorney alone, without the intervention of a summons, were the present grounds of objection. There was a further question as to whigher the Expension, applicant, not being a party to the Mr. Sheppard appeared in support of the application, and Mr. Faucut showed cause against it.

Their Honers are aside the warrant of attorney and oxecution on account of the before-mentioned variances, and held that the present applicant had a locus standi for the purposes of this motion. They rofused, however, to grant MARINISON AND OTHERS V. ISBRETER AND OTHERS.

held that the present applicant had a loose standi for the purposes of this motion. They refused, however, to grant costs.

HARRISON AND OTHERS V. ISBRETER AND OTHERS.

This also was a case from Chambers. It was an application for a prohibition. The object sought for was to stay all proceedings under a decision by a court of appeal, under the Gold-fields Act, 25th Victoria, No. 4, section 30, The litigant parties were mining firms at the Lachlan, Disputes had arisen as to frontage, and as to the course of the lead. The applicants had been successful in the carlier disputes, but unsuccessful before the court of appeal. Gold to the value of about $2500$, which had been impounded, as well as a portion of the claim, was dependent upon this docision. The case, however, tursed wholly upon a legal question as to the constitution of the court of appeal, and this depended upon the construction of the words used in the statute. The court as thus constituted was to consist of three persons appointed by the Governor—a chairman, and two others bedning miner's rights for six months. The chairman of the court of appeal in question was the Police Magistrate of Bathurst, and held no miner's right. The other two members of the court held such rights, and the question was whether the chairman also, ought not to have been similarly qualified.

Sir William Manning, Q.C., and Mr. Stephes, appeared in support of the application; and Mr. Martin, Q.C., Mr. Millord, and Mr. Wisdem showed cause sgaines it.

Their Honors held that the Legislature must be taken, by the terms need in this statute, to have made the holding of a six months' miner's right necessary to the chairman as well as to the color members of the court. It was just as if for the ordinary administration of justice a tribunal was constituted to consist of a president and two bursters of so many years standing. Or as if, for naval or military purposer, a court was made to consist of a president and two bursters of so many years standing. Or as if, for naval or military purp members who had held commissions for a certain number of years. Who could doubt that, in either such case, the president of the court must have the same qualification as the other members? So in this case, where the tribunal was to deal with mining matters, the Legislature must be taken to have naturally contemplated confiding the adjudication upon such matters to persons who, being the helders of miners rights, must have a peculiar acquaintance with them. The prohibition must, therefore, go, but, under the circumstances, without costs.

CAMERON V. NEWCOME,

This was en application to stay, by prohibition, all proceedings consequent upon a conviction under the Publicans' Act.

This was en application to stay, by prohibition, all proceedings consequent upon a conviction under the Publicans' Act.

Mr. Milford appeared in support of the application, but the conviction was unsupported.

Their Henors—an affidavit of serving being produced—directed the prohibition to go.

EX PARTE HROWN.

This was an application for an order directing the Judge of the Metropolitan and Coast District Court, to cause the Registrar of that Court at Parramatis to tax the plaintiff's costs in an action which had been there tried. The question was on the District Court's Act—whether professional costs could be allowed in a case where, although and been under £10? When, in feet, under such circumstances, this latter sum must be taken to be, within the meaning of the Act, the smoant "sued for."

Mr. Butler and Mr. Simpson appeared in support of the application, and Mr. Darley shewed cause against.

A preliminary objection was taken by Mr. Darley, that the Registrar being an independent officer of the Court, the present application ought to have been made as against him, and not as against the Judge.

Their Henors sustained this objection, but (without pronouncing judicially upon the real point at issue, which was not legally before them, and which Mr. Darley had not argued), they stated their very strong impression to be that the costs ought to be allowed.

OVERIMEYER V. CAPPER.

Flaintiff claimed £11 5s. 7d., being the value of 4700 bricks short delivered, and paid for by plaintiff's agent. Plaintiff contracted to build some houses for Captain. Russell, at Potts' Point, but being unable to obtain credit for the materials, made arrangements with Mr. Hilly, the architect, that the bricks ahould be purchased on Captain Russell's account from the defendant, and that their value should be deducted from the moneys coming to the plaintiff on his contract. It did not appear that any proper check was kept against defendant at the time of the sciivery of the bricks, and that some considerable time after payment had been made for the full quantity it was alleged that there was a deficiency. For the defendant was no liable, inasmuch as the contract was not with the plaintife but with Captain Russell, and a number of witnesses were called whose evidence tended to show that the full quantity had been delivered. Verdict for defendant. Mr. Powel for plaintif, Mr. Rollin for defendant.

There has not been quite so much business doing in the share market this week; the high rates which most securities have now reached having checked for the time the great desire to invest in shares. The news from England of improved rates ruling for Australian securities, owever, strengthens prices, and holders do not sppear willing to accept any reduction, but are rather inclined to raise prices as soon as the opportunity offers. The fluctuations that have taken place during the week are as follows:— Bank shares are firm, and the shares of our Colonial Banks have changed hands at full rates. Business during the week has been rather dull, and there is a disinclination on the part of buyers to operate for the present. Since the arrival of the mail almost all descriptions of goods have had a downward tendency. This is attributed to shipments, which, although showing a decrease on those of July, are regarded as being in excess of our requirements. The following is the latest report of our

THE TOWN of RMU is destined to be the GREAT TERMINUS OF THE WESTERN LINE, and that all the advantages which statch to railway communication in the way of trade or business must be confined to this particular locality during that time. The increased prospective value which this must give to the lands at Einu is more permanent, and therefore greater than in any town or village along the line. The tenders for THE GREAT NEPLAN BRIDGE have been accepted, and the works are likely to be com-along the line. The tenders for THE GREAT NEPEAN BRIDGE have been accepted, and the works are likely to be commenced forthwith. This must add greatly to the population of the pince, and therefore increase the trade.

THE EMU RAILWAY TERMINUS will be close to the properties described above, so that at no very distant period the whole will be brought within about TWO HOURS DRIVE OF SYDNEY BY RAIL. The land is of first quality, and it is admitted on all hands that, for natural beauty, the Run Plains, on the banks of the broad Nepean, cannot be surpassed.

It is also being offered at a period of the year, when proporties of this class are rarely found in the market—a fact well worthy of attention, inasmuch as the purchaser will enter into possession after all the expense and trouble of lambing is over, with the wool on the sheep's backs; and, therefore, an immediate return for his clip, and the lambs to count within a few menths after his purchase.
